NATIONAL ART GALLERY AND DOMINION MUSEUM

ADDRESS OF HIS EXCELLENCY LORD BLEDISLOE WHEN LAYING THE FOUNDATION STONE AT WELLINGTON, APRIL 14, 1934.

It affords me infinite satisfaction to comply with your request that I perform to-day this epoch-making function. New Zealand is unquestionably ripe for a great advance in the general cultural progress of her people, and I can conceive of no more practical or fruitful method of signalising and stimulating such maturity than the establishment of an up-to-date National Art Gallery and Museum generously and prudently equipped and administered with catholicity of outlook and comprehensiveness of educative ambit.

A public museum, if properly stocked, organised and fully utilised both inside and outside its walls, should not be a mausoleum of dead specimens, the resort only of monastic specialists or interested collectors, but a vitalising power-house radiating currents of intellectual energy and calling forth latent genius in all classes of the community. Similarly a National Art Gallery should not be only a receptacle for "Old Masters" (valuable and sadly scarce though they are in this Dominion), still less of modern pictures of varying merit and transient popularity, but rather a source of unsullied inspiration to "young students" and indeed to all thoughtful citizens—a pure fountain

SOCIAL SECURITY CONTRIBUTION

To

The Householder:

OBLIGATIONS UNDER THE ACT:

(1) This pamphlet is issued for the information and guidance of persons liable for the Social Security Contribution payable under the provisions of the Social Security Act, 1938, operating as from the 1st April, 1939.

(2) The Social Security Contribution consists of a registration fee, and a charge of one penny for every 1s. 8d. (1/- in the £) on salaries and wages and other income. It replaces, in form, the charge hitherto payable in terms of the Employment Promotion Act, 1936. The Social Security registration fee and charge will be collected in the same manner as the registration levy and the employment charge of 8d. in the £ previously payable. The Commissioner of Taxes will continue to be responsible for the collection of both the fee and the charge.

(3) By the Social Security Act, all persons (male and female and including natives) 16 years of age or over, who are ordinarily resident in New Zealand, are required:—

(i) To register within one month after the 1st April, 1939.
(ii) Upon registration to obtain a coupon-book.
(iii) To pay the Social Security charge at the rate of 1/- in the £ upon all salary and wages earned.
(iv) Unless exempted, to pay the annual or quarterly instalments of the registration fee as these fall due.
(v) To furnish during May of each year a declaration as to income other than salary or wages derived during the year ended on the previous 31st March, and to pay the Social Security charge upon such income.

NOTE—

(a) Male persons who have already registered under the Employment Promotion Act are not required to re-register; these will continue to use the coupon-books (if any) already held by them.

(b) Persons in receipt of a war pension granted in respect of total disability are not required to make the declaration mentioned in (v) above.

REGISTRATION:

(4) Persons liable to register (see paragraph 3 above) must do so within one month after the 1st April, 1939.

In the case of those who attain the age of sixteen years after the 1st April, 1939, or become ordinarily resident in New Zealand after that date, registration must be effected within one month after such sixteenth birthday, or after becoming ordinarily resident, as the case may be. Similarly, persons who, being required to register, are temporarily absent from New Zealand on the 1st April, 1939, must register within one month after their return.
